JUDGE'S PLEA WINS BOY A NEW CHANCE

Magistrate Crane Turns Advocate for a Prisoner Before Him.

YOUNG MULLANE FREE.

Admits Robbing a Cash Drawer, but Promises to Retore Money.

Magistrate Crane turned advocate and made a winning plea for a boy prison named Hugh Mullane, who came befor him to-day in the Harlem Police Court to be arraigned on a charge of grand Mullane, who is seventeen years old went to work on Jan. 12 as an errand boy in the Van Dyk grocery, at No. 2134 Eighth avenue. Two days later he disappeared. The contents of a cash drawer amounting to $87 vanished simul taneously.

On Saturday night young Mullane who had since been missing, turned up at his parent's home, No. 2121 Eighth avenue. He had a row with somebody there and Detectives Hunt and McAvoy came and arrested him. They were on the way to the Night Court with the prisoner, when they recalled that a boy of his name was wanted for something more serious than causing a family disturbance. Hence his appearance in the Magistrate Crane was struck IN's looks and questioned him at length. At first Mullane denied his guilt, but after the Magistrate had lectured him he broke down and owned up to the cash drawer thaft He told Magistrate Crane that he had been promised a job exercising hors in the stables of a Harlem liveryman named Comisky and that if he had another chance he would pay back to amount of the theft. The Magistrate asked John J. Quinn, manager of t asked John J. Quinn, manager of the store, and William J. Flammer, attorney for the grocery company, to drop the charge. They demurred.

"Well, I'll take a chance myself, said the Magistrate. "I'm willing to invest a few dollars in a boy if the speculation makes a man of him. I will guarantee that this boy stays. facts, is willing to trust him, and so

BANKER TO EDUCATE BOYS OF HIS NATIVE TOWN

This afternoon Hugh Mullane is exercising his first batch of horses.

CHICAGO, March 30.-Norman H Harris, a Chicago banker, has made a novel educational gift to the boys o Becket, his native township in the Massachusetts hills. By virtue of higenerosity no boy in the township nee of the offer Mr. Harris will So per cent, in his studies and that his deportment shall be satisfactory. On the same terms Mr. Harris also offers to pay $5 a week to every native-born Becket young man attending Harvard, Williams, Amherst.
